Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group (w) and the experimental group (v). The control group (w) was exposed to a standard condition, while the experimental group (v) was exposed to a condition with a specific intervention. The results of the experiment are shown in the bar chart, with the control group (w) having a value of approximately 1.0 and the experimental group (v) having a value of approximately 1.5. The error bars represent the standard deviation.
